CENTRES OF EXCELLENCE

National Resource Centre for Cluster Development (NRCD)

Cluster development approach has emerged as one of the most innovative and effective strategy for enhancing competitiveness and promoting innovation in the Micro, Small and Medium Enterprises (MSMEs) sector in holistic way. MSMEs can significantly increase their competitive advantages through mutual co-operation and engaging business development service providers for cost reduction, capacity building, technology up gradation and infrastructure development.

After successful cluster interventions by UNIDO and policy recommendation of Abid Hussain Committee for cluster development, the Government of India has taken initiatives for cluster development. Under the framework of the Cluster Development Programme in India, UNIDO, prepared the first comprehensive database on Indian clusters, organized seminars/ workshops with policy makers, made presentations on the approach to groups of policy makers, exposed policy makers to the Indian and Italian clusters, documented development experiences in selected Indian and international clusters and shared them with policy makers.

To cater to the needs of Micro and Small enterprises in the country and to enable MSME sector to face the challenges of globalisation, the office of Development Commissioner for MSME has launched Micro and Small Enterprises Cluster Development programme. It was felt necessary to establish a national level resource centre to promote cluster development in the country to dynamise the operations of MSME sector. The National Resource Centre for Cluster Development (NRCD) came into existence in January 2004, at ni-msme with the active support of the Development Commissioner (MSME), Ministry of MSME, Govt. of India. - To facilitate research on cluster development
- To provide handholding and monitoring services
- To profile and empanel BDS providers
- To organise training programmes for cluster stakeholders
- To serve as a link among developmental agencies involved in cluster development
- To disseminate information and provide guidance for cluster stakeholders

NRCD in the capacity of Nodal Agency, Technical Agency, Implementing Agency, Mentoring Agency and Monitoring Agency reached more than 300 clusters. Facilitated Union Government, State Governments, Industry Associations, NGOs, Technical, Management & Financial Institutions, Business Development Service Providers, R&D Institutions and MSMEs in selection of clusters, capacity building of cluster stakeholders, cluster diagnosis, implementation, monitoring and impact assessment of soft & hard interventions and design of exit strategy.

About Hyderabad

Hyderabad, the capital city of Telangana, consists of old city and new city of Hyderabad, Secunderabad & Cyberabad. An imaginary line drawn across the Tank Bund is still used to distinguish. A bustling 400-year-old metropolis with an urban population of 10 million people, Hyderabad was formerly the seat of fabulously wealthy Nizams. Surrounded by huge prehistoric rock formations, the city is a blend of cutting edge IT companies and well preserved cultural heritage, a pot-pourri of old and the new. Hyderabad invokes nostalgia among old residents for its culture, fine arts and certain sophistication in manners. Much more than anything, it presents a true picture of secularism. Hyderabad is the fifth largest cosmopolitan city in India.

Climate

Hyderabad enjoys three main seasons: summer, monsoon and winter. Summers are pretty warm, starting from March and running through June; whereas winters are pleasant, starting from November till February. Light clothing for summer and a sweater or jacket for winter is recommended. The monsoon sets during July and precipitation extends up to October.

Temperatures

The average temperatures at Hyderabad vary:

- August - October 26.0 °C
- November - January 22.0 °C
- February - March 28.0 °C
- April - July 38.0 °C

Food

Hyderabad is known for its varied and exquisite cuisine. The local food is quite spicy; continental, Chinese and other kinds of food are available in many restaurants. The varieties of fruit available include bananas, apples, grapes, oranges, mangoes, and melons (in season).

Language

Though Telugu is the language of the state, English, Hindi and Urdu are understood and spoken by majority of the people. Knowing these languages is a distinct advantage while dealing with the local population in shops and business places, and while using public transport. Multilingual translation books are available at the Institute library
